Directors are responsible for the general direction and control of your respective credit union. To be an effective director you should possess a certain base level of financial skills that are consistent with the size and complexity of your specific credit union's operation.

Directors must have a working familiarity with financial statements in order to prudently direct and control the credit union. This is a perfect opportunity to receive required BSA/OFAC and Financial Literacy Training at a very low cost.

All attendees who complete the training will receive a Certificate of Completion.

Invite a fellow credit union friend, coworker, or credit union official to share in a morning of Low-Cost education.
